publicworkshop Who needs #sensors when you've got really loud temper tantrums? Vaguely ironic that Brodie, Zhi and Chris got the #arduino #play sensor up and running on @tinywpa 's Switchback Bench prototype today to measure 'use' but at least in the short term it was entirely unnecessary because this girl's temper tantrum was so loud that everyone on the block knew that she was using it but didn't want to stop, no matter what her parents said. There's the Laugh-ometer in the works but maybe we need a #tantrum-meter too? Can't wait to see more of these sensors up on Urban Thinkscape's #playground as well as @tinywpa 's benches and playable #bikeracks . #4017lanaster #playeverywhere #madeinphilly beabuildinghero Our jankball door sensor is now fully operational. This will tell us how many people walk up and down the steps over the course of the week.

beabuildinghero Our #bench is now self aware!
After making sure the photoresistors are storm ready, we installed them along with a #arduino a box that's built into the bench. Now the bench 'knows' when someone sits/gets up. -Zhi #playeverywhere tarrantrj Does it sense when someone farts?

beabuildinghero Coding the #arduino #playsensors so we can test them out at #4017lancaster. #playeverywhere jung.climbing Kudos, We dig your stuff. 🙌 I could be wrong but you might like our organic pants.

beabuildinghero Started really messing around with the #arduino stuff for the #playeverwhere project. We are making progress with figuring out how to track use of the #playground equipment.

imdwdw Great 🙏

beabuildinghero Getting down to the wire here it the #playeverwhere #sensors. We still have a good way to go, but I have confidence that we will make it. ~Brodie
