SOLUTION

A Little Background

Before I begin I want you to understand that I've been on both sides. I used to say f you and let punches fly. I've been a bully and the bullied. Neither is fun neither is cool both makes people look like fools. I was only an adolescent being a bully I knew that wasn't what I was destined for. I was low. I was dark. I was trying to fit in be a bully and play my part. I was the guy being picked people followed me, tribulations trialed me. It seemed that my people though of me as a verbal dummy. It's been years and my fears have followed in my shadow. I move through my own overwhelming consciousness while sitting in a boat using my mind as a paddle.

This is my project conflict of society's dialect the frustrations of the old and new generations to come. Peer mediators sending problems on the run showing students that they can be cool and have fun.

The Process Of The Program

Once the students have signed up for the conflict resolution form, and they included all the information asked. The peer mediators are notified and basically given the problem, through a peer mediation form that the students involved fill after the signup form. Then we set up a meeting. Once the peer mediators meet with both students involved separately and then together it's time to get the problem solved. After we all meet and have the questions gone over asked to be both people involved. They answer either yes or no and then the peer mediators allow each person to tell their side of the story. After both sides are given the resolve for the problem is given then. Both students either show a resolve or we continue to the process until we have the problem solved.

The Agreement Between Students In Conflict

Do you agree to speak to your mediator?

Do you agree to solve the conflict?

#3

Do you agree to not cut anyone off?

Different Reasons For Why students Sign-Up

Students can be involved in peer mediation in two ways. Students can sign up to be peer mediators which mean that they will be required to get the proper training to be peer mediators. After training students participating as peer mediators will be given specific problems and showed how to help solve these problems. Afterwards when they have proved themselves capable they get the problem or conflict directly from me or a counselor and they meet the students involved. Or on the other side the students being mediated will sign up also on google forms and answer the questions telling me and the peer mediators about problem. Who's involved and why and when it started. So we can all be on the same page and be able to help solve the problem smoothly.

How Students Can Sign-Up

Students have the sign-up forms in their emails.

An Example Of Conflict/(Gossip)

How I've Grown As A Person

I'm a person a different circumstance, so sometimes I don't understand people who even myself. I am someone that doesn't usually resonate around with others. What I'm Saying is that sometimes I could hide myself from the social substance of society. A program that I started by myself no help except for my capstone mentor. I grew enough to be the leader that I need to be. I grew as a person, a person that no longer allows society to act without my help. I want to be the person that is willing to help others solve their problems. Even in middle school didn't understand what I understand now. But now that I've gotten older and I'm at the end of my road I can see what I as a person is supposed to in schools and in society period.

How My Mindset Has Changed

Being apart of different groups of people it challenges you mentally it affects your consciousness to be asleep or awoke. During my experiences with Peer Mediation and similar experiences my brain has grown to understand how people change people. The whole reason to have a program like this one is so that people are helping changing each other for the better. Before this program in middle school and even now I was unaware of the aspects of how people affect other people. Based on different feelings, backgrounds, culture and more. I am enlightened by the knowledge that comes with teaching people to help others. This knowledge will allow me to see through people in order to give them tools that they need to mentally be prepared for different conflicts, keep that information confidential and give conflict resolution.

Peer Mediation Is Also Online

Because social media and other advances of technology have allowed people to connect more frequently. There has to be some sort of program and resource for people because cyberbullying is very real. People can be bullied through social media and are even given physical abuse based on the outcome of this. That's why people can sign-up for an online program, that will help people solve their problems instead of allowing those conflicts to Escalade.

Goals For My Peer Mediation Program

What I'm doing at SLA@Beeber is something that I have been doing since Beeber Middle School. Allowing students to come together and solve the problems so that the adult won't have to get involved. Students are learning what to do in specific situations and are trained to help their fellow students. Whenever there is a problem, conflict, or dispute among students no matter how big or small. If it brings attention and needs help peer mediation is the way to go. Students can help other students and while this is happening students are meeting new students. Bringing our community together and making us a stronger unit.

Inquiry

Students have to use inquiry to determine what the conflicts and training require. Peer Mediators also have to ask questions to the students being peer mediated.

Reflection

Reflection

For Reflection students and peer mediators can reflect together about the conflict and the new outcome or solution.

Reflection

Presentation

Presentation is used to show an example of how differently the problem could have been resolved.

Research

Peer Mediators have to research how to solve specific conflicts, and have to do this research together

Collaboration

For my capstone students have to collaborate, together to help other students to solve their problems.

COLLABORATION

You can ask me anything you want,
ask me anything.
