Poem

Kids go to school for fun
They go to experience new things to grow their brains
Like a plant collecting water and sunlight
In the middle of school
Kids go out to take a break from work
To feel like not everything has to be work
To feel like
But it doesn't mean it's always a safe place for them
Sometimes there's one person that makes their school life down
And that's a bully.

The worst possible foe anyone could have at school
Like A thunderstorm on a day you were planning to have that was sunny
Or eating a meal that you were prepared for that turned out to be expired
That's the kind of feeling of dealing with a bully.
Bullying is one of the main things that can hurt a student at any school
Both emotionally and physically
Like you go to a mall that makes you feel happy and have fun all the Time, then a huge construction is taking up most of the entire mall that Makes you want to stop going.
Most bullying happens because the bully doesn't have enough support at Home.

Kids can become bully's because of lack of support from their families
Like a kid not giving enough attention to their pets
Or kids can become bullies to avoid getting themselves hurt
Like the attacker attacking first so he won't be attacked
Kids need support from their families so they won't become
The bad guy of tomorrow.

Teachers can stop bullying by seeing both sides of the victim and Bully's stories
Like an officer collecting evidence for a crime
If a teacher ever sees bullying
It's like seeing a prison riot
But it's not happening in a prison
It's supposed to happen in a place where kids feel safe
If the teachers secure the kids are in a safe environment where They are comfortable talking to other kids
Like a new cat being comfortable being with the other cats.
All of this is the best way for kids to feel safe at school.

Artist Statement

I used creativity to convey my zine's main purpose and explore my zine's question by asking "What teachers need to do if they see bullying." I did this by saying that a student is suppose to feel safe while being at school, but bullies can ruin their school life. I based my poem on Audre Lorde's "Afterimages" by using imagery for some of my lines. My creative submission is a drawing of a picture that shows how bullying affects a student and a teacher is their to protect that student.

Research-based Informational

I decided to choose the topic of bullying because it's the worst experience any child could face while growing up and going to school. I did some research and it said that bullying can negatively impact the students ability to learn. I've read that there needs to be assessments to know what's going on. Sometimes adults underestimate the rates of bullying because sometimes kids don't report it. Assessing bullying can help provide a picture of what's going on.

Bullying could be caused by lack of support from families. Some students would feel unsupported at home, so they would let their anger out on other students. Or the bully has been bullied before. So to avoid getting hurt, he/she would bully other students to avoid that pain.

I've read that one of the best ways to prevent bullying is to build a safe environment. Students need to make sure that they are interacting carefully. Students could be in danger of bullying if there's no adult supervision. Teachers could be role models to students so they could inspire to stop bullying around school and if one of them's a bully, they could be inspired to stop and be a better student. Students do creative writing, like poems that speak out against bullying.

In conclusion, bullying is something that happens in every school. It's what makes students feel uncomfortable and scared at school. To end bullying all teachers or adults need to be aware of their child's safety and now see the big picture of what's happening at their school. But if all schools can do everything said from the information I collected for this article. Schools can be much safer for students.
